Alice Woodhall is now on the ocean, on her way to England, according to the story of a gentieman who was well acquainted with her movements while in this city. She managed to get out of town in a very clever manner without exciting the suspicions of the private detectives who were shadowing her. After the charge of forging John Gill's name to the transfer of United States bonds was! dismissed dy Judge Gildersleeve on Monday afternoon she went uptown, disguised herself in a mourning contume and blue apec tacles, and, accompanied by her Englishd legal adviser, drove to Wante Plains and took a train for Montreal.

There the couple put up at an out of the way hotel and at nightfall boarded a tug which runs down the St. Lawrence River and connects at Quebec with the Allan Line steamer for Glascow. They then tepped on board the ocean ferryboat and were soon 100 miles from American soil. That there was some necessity afor her line of action may be gathered from the fact that gaithough the indictment on which she was extradited only specified the charge of forging John Gill's name to the transfer of the bonds, she was extradited on the State charge of forging a check for $62.

In addition to the criminal proceedings there are pending numerous civil suits on the part of John Gill's heirs to recover the money taken from him by the Woodhalls. They had Alice watched by private detectives, but she managed to elude them by engageing a woman to dress in the clothing she had worn in court, and on Sunday the woman went to Philadelphia and purchased a passage to England on one of the ocean steamers. The de-Oregon Railway and Navigation tectives, thinking she was Alice, watched her, and allowed the real Alice to get safely away, -New York Star,

LANDS AND HOMES.

Marion county is situated in the neart of the magnificent Willamette neart of the magnificent Willametti valley, the central gem in the clu-ter of rich counties that form that princely domain, and is the banner commonwealth of the great north-west in all the essentials that go to-wards making it a profitable abiding place, and a home for the thrity farmer, the cunning artisan and the industrious mechanic.

Rich in its agricultural resources in its cultivated and uncultivated lands, in its water powers, and minerals; rich in its colleges and minerals; rich in its colleges and schools of learning, and with a climate unsurpassed for its salubrity, it presents to the immigrant from the overcrowded states, where cold winters and hot summers, with terrible cyclones, prevail, who comes to the coast with some means, advantages that no other county in Oregon possesses.

country in Oregon possesses.

Much has been written of this western country that requires a stretch of the imagination to comprehend, and numerous complaints are heard from the class who have been misled by them, so in this brief sketch the writer desires to avoid exageration as to its present and prospective advantages, asking those in the east into whose hands these in the east into whose hands this may fall—particularly those who have their eyes directed towards this const—to peruse it carefully, feeling that it is not written to lare unmigrants within its borders, but only as a truthful discription of a land which, if it does not "flow milk and honey," contains within its bosom wealth and resources equal to any other country on the Pacific to any other country on the Pacific side of the Rocky mountains.

BOUNDARIES.

Marion county is bounded on the north by the Willamette river an Butte creek which separates it from Chekamas county; on the east by Checkamas county and the Cascada mountains, which separate it from Wasco county; on the south by the Santiam river and the north fork-the Santiam, separating it from Linn county, and on the west by the Willamette river.

PHYSICAL FORMATION. The county contains, includ valley, prairie and mountain landabout 9.0,000 acres.

There are two main divisions, it mountain and the valley. Thatter extends from the Williams

The mountainous portion conta ome fourteen townships of new welve miles north and sout!: orty miles east and west, and eprises all classes of land, from rewhat he was going to file with the two boys. The Texan replied that he "lowed to take 'em in."

"Then you want two more seats," said the manager."

"The manag afford a wonderful summer ran for stock, and many of the more terprising farmers are availing the selves of this opportunity, and when the cold frosts of autumn appears the stock are brought out to free justures, thus enabling them to sevice the winter storms with him

OREAT ADVANTAGES.

A decided advantage Marion counfarmers are through with their seed ing, the hill farmer is preparing for his summer work. And yet the low lands are much preferred by low lands are much preferred by many; the yield per acre is generally greater, and perhaps less labor is re-quired to place the soil in prepor-condition for crops; and then should the season prove dry, the bottom lands are sure to bring the best crops. No better farming land cap be found in the United States than that on the noted Howell prairie, French prairie, Santiam prairie and Salem prairie. The soil of these are wonderfully productive. With good cultivation, forty bushels of wheat and sixty of oats per acre can be readily secured.

FACILITIES FOR MARKET,

The Willamette river, with two nes of railroad running the entire length of the county from north to south, with the Oregon Pacific road crossing the southeast corner of the county, affords ample facilities to reach a market in any direction.

BALEM

Is the capital of the state and samty sent of Marion county, situ-ted on the Willamette river—and the O. & C. raliroad. Costly buildings have been erected, among which the state capitol building, county court house, Chemekete hetel, pera house, new public school building. Catholic school building. Catholic school building. School building. School building. School building. School building the school business blocks, which will compare favorably with older and green cities. larger cities.

GENERAL.

All things considered, the Willam the valley has the best country in the world, and Marion country is seen centerally located therein. To those seeking homes in the west, as better opportunities can be stered, than are found here. Persons desiring information regarding harmon country or the Williametre valley, those wanting farming lands, stock farms, business property or city residences, will be promptly and reliably informed by addressing the well known flow. the well known firm of Willis a Chamberlin, real estate agents, opera house block, Salem Oregon.
